

Seafarers getting an ENG1 equivalent: find countries whose certificates are accepted on UK flag vessels

Each country has a list of its own ADs. To get a certificate that's been assessed as equivalent to ENG1, you must contact the relevant country's own maritime authority. They'll give you the locations of their own ADs.

The list updates annex A of MSN 1815, which lists the countries that can issue equivalent certificates. It's updated as and when medical standards and systems have been assessed for equivalency.
